Gilbert Astajaya	2018	University of Malaya	18 July - 31 July 2022	The program that I followed is meta-analysis scientific research which is a continuation of my final thesis. A meta-analysis is a method for systematically combining pertinent qualitative and quantitative study data from several selected studies to develop a single conclusion that has greater statistical power. The topic of research is about the antidiabetic activity of cocoa (Theobroma cacao L.) in the animal study stage. This program was proposed by my main thesis supervisor to extend my thesis from a systematic literature review into meta-analysis research. The program was implemented offline at the University of Malaya in Malaysia within two weeks (18th - 31st of July). Guidance was provided by Prof. Dr. Mohammed Abdullah Mahdi Alshawsh from the Department of Pharmacology, Faculty of Medicine, University of Malaya, Malaysia. Prof. Dr. Mohammed Abdullah Mahdi Alshawsh, who provided the guidance, is an expert in the field of pharmacology, especially natural products in the areas of colorectal cancer, obesity, diabetes, and fatty liver diseases.
